THE TOP 100 ADULT INDUSTRY NEWSMAKERS OF 2006

As the adult industry enters a new year, it would be remiss not to reflect back on 2006, its high points and low points, and take stock of some of the newsmakers, noisemakers and headline grabbers that XBIZ reported on in the past 12 months.

THE TOP 100 ADULT INDUSTRY NEWSMAKERS OF 2006 STARTS ON PAGE 64

LAWRENCE WALTERS

■ In addition to representing a long list of adult professionals in their various legal battles, 1st Amendment attorney Lawrence Walters was a featured guest on Fox News' "The O'Reilly Factor," where he discussed Scotland Yard's use of National Security Agency wiretap surveillance to execute the arrests of 21 terrorist suspects who were plotting to down as many as 10 airplanes headed to U.S. cities. Walters, of the law firm Weston, Garrou, De Witt & Walters, also posted a 2257 inspection guidebook on his website for the adult entertainment industry to use in preparation for record-keeping inspections.
